

QHN users are now able to access patient information from sources that offer treatment for substance use disorders:

- Mind Springs Health and West Springs Hospital
- The Center for Mental Health, Montrose, CO area

If a patient’s record in QHN contains information from either of the above sources, the QHN user will be alerted by a pop up message, as shown in the screenshot below. Follow these instructions:

- (1) Read the message and affirm that you have a treating relationship with the patient
- (2) Click on the button “Unlock Consent Data”

The screenshot shows a web browser window with a QHN interface. A yellow pop-up message titled "Consent Data Notice" is displayed, containing the text: "This patient may have additional information that is subject to HIPAA and other laws and regulations. By clicking on 'Unlock Consent Data' below, you will affirm that you have a treating provider relationship with the patient prior to accessing this information." The "Unlock Consent Data" button is circled in green. A red circle with the number "1-2" is overlaid on the top right of the pop-up. The background interface shows a patient record for "Patient8, Consent Female 08/08/2018 (11 mos)" with various tabs and data sections.

Break the Glass

Next, there will appear another pop up message, as shown in the screenshot below:

(3) Read the message

(4) If you can affirm that you have a treating relationship with the Patient and that your access and/or re-disclosure is/will be compliant with Federal Regulation, C.F.R. Title 42, Part 2, then

(5) Indicate your reason for breaking the glass by selecting from the “drop-down” menu, then click the button: “Break the Glass”

The screenshot shows a medical software interface with a patient record for "Home, Test Male 01/01/1901 (118 yrs)". A dialog box titled "Consent: Break The Glass" is open. The dialog box contains the following text:

Patient health information may be available from the data sources listed below. Federal Regulation, C.F.R. Title 42, Part 2 restricts your access and re-disclosure of this information. The patient has authorized disclosure of this information to treating providers through QHN. By clicking on "Break the Glass", below, you are certifying that you have a treating provider relationship with the patient that is compliant with said regulation, which allows you to access the information. Further, you agree that your use and any re-disclosure of the information will be in compliance with C.F.R. Title 42, Part 2 and other applicable regulations.

Data Sources data that will be unlocked:
MNDSPR

What is your reason for breaking the glass?

At the bottom of the dialog box, there are two buttons: "Break The Glass" (highlighted with a red circle) and "Cancel". A green circle with the text "3-5" is overlaid on the dialog box.